Schramm Sunday SPEAKER SERIES

Spiny Orb-weaving Spiders
Sunday, September 5
2:00—3:00 pm

Have you ever run into a spider web while walking in the woods? That web might have belonged to a spiny orb-weaving spider (Micrathena gracilis). These small spiders weave large, wheel-shaped webs in Nebraska forests - plus, these critters might buzz if you pick them up!

Join Dr. Tyler Corey, biology instructor at Southeast Community College, to learn about the lives of these charismatic spiders and to hear about his research with your fellow Nebraskans - including spider-eating wasps, jumping spiders, and orb-weaving spiders.

We'll begin the program with a short talk, and then we'll head outside and look for spiders and mud-dauber wasps around the Education Center.

Advance registration is encouraged. Register through our Facebook page (@SchrammEducationCenter) or scan the QR code here.

FREE program, enter through Classroom Entrance. Does not include admission to the Education Center.
